Mrs. Dunning presided at the January meeting of the Local Association of Girl Guides when the seven ladies met at Mrs. John Tynan's home. The meeting opened with the Guide Prayer, followed by the secretary's report which was approved and read, and the Treasurer's report.

Mrs. Dunning moved a vote of thanks to Mrs. Walker for conveying the Kinsmen's Christmas Card to the girls. Mrs. Dunning read a letter from Colonel Tynan stating that the Girl Guide room would be available for the teaching of Home Science to Guides. She also read two letters from aid and six Companies requesting the aid of the L. A. in paying bus transportation to Camp Canada at Chatham for the uniform and blouse and end caps. Mrs. McQueen moved that the L. A. loan $20.00 to aid and the Ladies' Meeting, as well as bus subject to review by the L. A. and the Leader.

The badge requirements were that the Cook's Badge requirements were drawn up and that Mr. Staples was prepared to visit teaching for the Attenborough Badge. Mrs. McQueen suggested Mrs. Breen as Home Nursing Teacher. Mrs. Walker asked to contact Mrs. Breen to teach to be girls. A room at the Recreation Centre is available for this purpose. Mrs. Staple is beginning a First Aid to all girls' residence. Training and this course is open to Guides 15 and over. Mrs. McQueen is the Teacher for the Health Badge.

Mrs. McQueen reported for the Building Committee. Mrs. Ray Wilson had offered a supper on Lindsay Street. A letter was read from J. R. Stewart re the C. P. R. Station. Mrs. Dunning agreed to write Mr. Stewart, regarding this letter.

Mrs. McQueen was instructed to get in touch with Mr. Wilson re the station.

Pickering boasts... more bird feeding stations per capita than any place of comparable size

Pickering—This village of 1,000 people, 15 miles east of Toronto, claims it has more bird-feeding stations each winter than any other settlement of its size in Ontario, as a result, to be found almost any day are cardinals, juncos, chickadees, titmice, blue jays, and robins. On morning down, thousands of English sparrows and starlings, and songbirds—including the odd pileolated variety—hawk, pheasant and wild about every other native bird in Canada, along with a lot of strays from other parts.

Recipe for bird attraction, according to Pickering folk, includes oats, millet, raw peanuts, whole cracked corn, bread crumbs and cracked, and old soup bones which still have some fat attached. There's hardly a house in the village or in the neighbouring township which hasn't its feeding station. Some of the stations are boxes from which the top and bottom have been knocked out and which are nailed to window sills, permitting the owner to simply open the window, place food in the box and then sit back and watch the birds in many cases, the birds become so tame that they actually knock on the window if the food supply is low.

Other most popular feeding locations: A bag slung beside a tree in which the bird can get out of place and which are suspended from the branches of a tree. Most birds are fed in the winter, many different fowls are fed and most birds feed in the winter. Many birds fly inland from Frenchman's Bay or Lake Ontario seeking early pickings, some average as high as a bag a day to keep the birds in a fight through the winter.

He said had been a very rewarding one. He commented on the birds in the various reports, beginning with the Bird. Mr. Crow closed his talk with a message with prayer and pronounced the benediction.

Cool was first named in 1839. It was named in 1875 and in 1876 it was named in 1875.

Life expectancy for Canadian men is now 68 years, for Canadian women it is 72 years.

Members, families to enjoy supper

A very enjoyable afternoon was held at the home of Mrs. V. Murphy when the West Ope W.I. held their first meeting for 1959. Visitors present included Mrs. I. Sharpe of Toronto, a past president and now honorary president of this branch.

Roll call for the day was the

"Tweedsmuir History Book." After the Ode, Mary Stewart Collect and the Lord's Prayer, the secretary

read the minutes, correspondence and treasurer's report. Several cards of thanks were received and also a very interesting letter from the Provincial President of W. I., outlining the work for the coming season. The members were reminded of the short course in "Home Nursing" to be held in the Agriculture rooms in Lindsay.

It was decided to hold a pot luck supper and social evening in the Messrs. Hall in Lake View on the 22nd inst.

Canada's gross national product is estimated at $32-million for 1958, an increase of two per cent over 1957 as compared to a postwar annual average of about four per cent; the 1958 increase was due entirely to higher prices, and not to an increase in national production.

Statisticians point out that Canadians consume 100 pounds of sugar per person annually. The eager delight with which little Diane Lunney (above) embraces her peppermint lollipop lends substantial support to what every parent already suspects: Canada's small children are a little bit sweet.

Beth Wendorff of Taber, Alberta holds typical sugar beet—part of Alberta's bumper '58 crop. 535,000 tons of beet roots were harvested from 38,000 acres of irrigated land around Lethbridge. It was largest crop of sugar beets ever grown in Canada; worth $9 million to Alberta's growers.

Canada has 7 sugar-refining factories: 3 in Alberta, 2 in Ontario, 1 in Manitoba and 1 in Quebec. Sugar content

Ontario, 1 in Manitoba and 1 in Quebec. Sugar content of beets runs around 17%. Adverse weather conditions will reduce sugar content. 1958's record was the result of almost perfect growing conditions.

Farmers bring their beets to local dumping grounds where they are loaded onto open box cars, carted to sugar factories for refining. Since it made its start at Farnham, Quebec in 1881, Canada's sugar beet industry has grown into an industry of considerable extent and importance until today Canada's sugar production runs as high as 300 million pounds—about one fifth of the country's total requirement of refined sugar.

Beets are grown on same land once in 3 years; one year is allowed for summer fallow. Following crop is corn, such as where land is not used for corn.

Following year's crop when wheat is planted. Harvesting machines remove beet tops, leave them on ground for cattle to eat. By-products of the sugar beet crop are beet pulp for cattle feed and beet molasses. All of Canada's sugar refining factories are modern and up-to-date; compare favourably with the best anywhere in the world.

LIFE INSURANCE PRESIDENTS
PROFESSORS of our cherished banks at the recently held annual meeting of these institutions, issued in warning that the threat of ruin is now before the Canadian national problem today. During the past week or so, leading life insurance companies have been holding their annual meetings and presidents of these institutions have been adding their voices to those of the bankers.

Pointing at the annual meeting last week of the Canada Life Assurance Company, to the parallel in Canada of the economic picture of Canada today, E. C. Gill, president of the company said:

"This measure of favorable and unfavorable influences in the Canadian economy has produced present-day conditions. These are likely to continue in the coming months. The navigation of these waters will require sound judgment and resolute action: all concerned — government, business and labor. Otherwise Canada may be headed for a recession of greater severity than this just experienced."

As the subject of inflation, a Ross Purvis, president of The Imperial Life Assurance Co. of Canada, at the annual meeting of that company said:

"The fear of inflation is very real. It does not decline with the recession through which we are passing. There is real concern that the government deficits are so large that they will not be built up further. What steps will be taken when overall demand surges ahead and the money supply becomes a real threat to stability? There is real concern over how we can proceed toward a balanced budget, when most of the increased government expenditures are not of a temporary nature."

"Government action alone," he went on to say, "cannot defuse inflation, but the efforts of all other elements in the community are nullified if government doesn't see the need for putting its own fiscal and monetary muscles in order. Even then, the government leadership engineers psychological fear in countless individuals and corporations, whose consequent actions will result in inflation."

Pointing to the policies of the British government, which have not yet been inflation but at least have lessened the immediate threat, the Canada Life resident said:

"In brief, contrary to what many people think, the Canadian government is not doing much to help the situation."

These are thoughts deserving of the closest examination by the powers that be in Ottawa. Nothing will be gained and nothing lost by an anti-life policy of insisting that inflation is not the threat that many Canadians believe it to be — The Financial Times.

Space Clock for Space Age

From the dawn of history, man has been engaged in a continuous search for more precise methods of measuring time. Wise men of all ages have relied on the motions of the heavenly bodies in calculations recording the passage of time. In 1930 an Oxford don experimented with the possibility of photographing the moon in a moving time exposure against a background of stars. This celestial clock has proved to be the most accurate method of time measurement ever devised. During the recently ended International Geophysical Year, 20 Markowitz moon cameras were located at strategic centres around the world to gain important information for time services and by correlating findings of the various cameras—a valuable data concerning the size and shape of the earth will also be revealed.

Canada's Dominion Observatory in Ottawa is the site of one of the 10 IGY moon-cameras; astronomer M. M. Thomson is shown above inserting a photographic plate into the powerful camera. Studies so far have established that each clock has been in operation for 30 precious seconds since the beginning of this century—a scientific finding of incredible import in a space-conscious age where man's efforts to land on the moon must be minutely gauged in split-second timing.

The moon camera is designed to hold the moon fixed against a background of stars for a 10- to 20-second exposure. A circular filter intercepts the image of the moon reducing its brightness one thousand times. At the same time the filter tilts at a uniform speed causing the image of the moon to be displaced backwards the exact amount of its forward motion through the stars. In the photograph above each star is identified with its special catalogue number. The stars have been accentuated for the purpose of reproduction.

Scientists at the Dominion Observatory are experimenting with a new-style mirror transit telescope, the first of its design in North America, which will make observation and photographs of the stars every minute to the second. The telescope will go into operation this summer.

In addition to its responsibility for maintaining and checking man-made precision clocks with the celestial clock, Canada's Observatory at Ottawa also has the responsibility for keeping the country on time. Star observations, taken with the transit Photographers Zenith Telescope, determine the correction and rates of several quartz crystal clocks which are used as primary standards. Similar clocks, corrected daily from these standards, provide the correct time for Canada. Mrs. "Bunny" Crawford above gives the exact time to everyone who phones her number.

For the past 4 years the Ottawa Observatory has maintained a "speaking clock" (shown above) which adds a voice announcement each minute to the second. The voice is produced from sound track, cut from 35mm. film, mounted in grooves on a revolving drum.
